THE MONROE INSTITUTE BULLETIN

WINTER 1989 VOLUME X, NO. 1

At this time of year, we at The Monroe Institute are thinking about our extended family of friends and supporters—all of you who make our vision possible and real. We send you our warmest regards and best wishes for an exciting and fulfilling year in 1989.

TMI TO LAUNCH PERSONAL RESOURCE EXPLORATION PROGRAM

You + Explorer Booth + Monitor = Accelerated Personal Growth

Remember the Explorer Program—brave men and women consenting to climb into a sensory deprivation booth and boldy go where no human has gone before? It was the Explorers who made the powerful refinements to the Hemi-Sync technology available to you and me, lying often for hours at a time while Bob Monroe fiddled with this sound frequency and that. And it was the Explorers who entrusted the Monroe laboratory monitors to the well-being of their minds and bodies, while their consciousnesses explored other realms. While some Explorers developed skills in channeling, others explored the out-of-body state, investigated possible Earth changes, visited the "library," and scanned beyond our solar system for signs of life. Not coincidental to the individual Explorer's process were great changes in life overview, identity, and purpose. It seemed that the combination of Hemi-Sync, the sensory deprivation booth, biomonitoring equipment, and live monitors guiding the exploratory process, all converged to produce a personal growth tool, par excellence.

To make this powerful tool available to a wider population, the Institute is developing what is being called the Personal Resource Exploration Program (PREP). The basic premise of this new program is that individual sessions in the Explorer booth, monitored by highly skilled professionals, can greatly assist one in accelerating his or her personal growth and development. That this is true has been demonstrated again and again with new Explorer subjects. Now you will have an opportunity to apply for your own personal Explorer sessions, and advance on your evolutionary path with the aid of the technology and expertise available at the Institute lab.

Personal Explorer sessions will be tailored to your unique needs and desires. The entire process, from application to the program through interviews, sessions, and post-session debriefings, will be designed to empower your growth both in areas of personal interest as well as in areas that present themselves during the process itself. The monitors are

New Program Designed for Gateway Voyage Graduates

Gateway Graduate Retreat
September 3 - 9 (Sunday - Saturday)

The Insititute is offering a new program designed exclusively for graduates of the Gateway Voyage. The purpose of the new program is to review and reinforce Focus 15 & 21 levels, to rub elbows and renew energy with other Gateway grads, to have one-on-one sessions in the Lab, and to relax and enjoy yourself. Because the operative word for this program is "retreat," it will not have the intensive nature of the Gateway.

David Mulvey, TMI Programs Director, is involved with the development of the Retreat, and will be its facilitator. He assures participants a stimulating, but fun and relaxing time. David promises tape exercises (largely Focus 15 - 21), roundtable discussions, films, group energy exercises, and plenty of free time for swimming, volleyball, meditation, or whatever you'd like to do. Also, for those of you who want to be treated by the magical hands of Jean Wallis, she will again be available for Swedish massage (by sign-up only, cost is additional).

The Gateway Graduate Retreat is available ONLY to Gateway Voyage graduates. Cost: $875. Contact Helen Warring for registration.

trained to facilitate a wide range of evolutionary phenomena that may occur, including OBE's, channeling, self-healing, and other possibilities. Their presence and feedback in the controlled Hemi-Sync environment will greatly increase your ability to observe, learn, and integrate the material worked on during your individual session.

At the helm of this exciting new project is Darlene Miller, Ph.D. Darlene is a clinical psychologist who has been involved with the design and implementation of training programs for over ten years. She is a seasoned Gateway Voyage and Guidelines trainer, and brings years of lab monitoring experience to her new position. According to Darlene, "One of the reasons these sessions are so helpful for the individual's development is that because of the constant contact with the monitor through the microphones and headphones in the booth, the individual, in addition to feeling very safe and protected, also is freed from the need to engage in any left-brain activity, in terms of thinking 'What kind of question should I ask next?' or 'What direction should I move in now?' or 'What would be most helpful to me?'. The monitor essentially does the left brain functioning in the session by guiding the participants so they can be totally free to have the experience. Yet because of the way the monitor uses questions and suggestions, the experience proceeds very smoothly."

The cost of a single PREP session is $75. The session lasts approximately 1 1/2 hours, beginning with an interview, followed by a guided exploration session in the booth, and ending with a debriefing with the monitor. For an application, call the Institute and ask for Ken Feather.

TMI Makes the Front Cover!

If you haven't done so yet, run out and get a copy of the November/December New Age Journal. On the cover you will find the topic of "Out-of-Body Experiences" and a mention of The Monroe Institute. Better yet, inside you will find an 11-page cover story by Jean-Noel Bassior, who does a fine job of interviewing Bob Monroe, talking about Hemi-Sync and altered states of consciousness, and reviewing the Gateway Voyage and the offerings of the Institute. The article reads like a good summation of the history and impact of Hemi-Sync and the Institute, citing examples and comments from research reports, Gateway graduate testimonials, scientists, Institute personnel, as well as her own Gateway experience. Bassior's style is at once personal and objective. Already the Institute has received well over 1000 inquiries on account of the New Age article. If you would like a reprint of the article, please write or call the Institute.

TMI Hires New Staff

The Institute has hired new staff for several positions.

F. Holmes (Skip) Atwater has been hired to head the new Brainmapping Project (for more information, see Fall & Winter issues of Breakthrough). Skip has been a college instructor, scientific investigator and behavioral engineer. He specializes in the design and application of methods for developing advanced human potentials. He has been a technical consultant to TMI since 1977.

Carol J. Johnston will be the new Gateway Outreach Program Coordinator. Carol brings to her new post experience in sales, marketing, and customer service. Her responsibilities will include all aspects of Gateway Outreach, supporting the success of GO Trainers out in their local communities throughout the U.S. and abroad.

Ken Feather will be heading up the Gateway Experience Program. (For more information on Ken and the Gateway Experience Program, see article in this issue.)

Darlene Miller, Ph. D., has been appointed Director of the new Personal Resource Exploration Program (PREP). (For more information on Darlene and the PREP Program, see article in this issue.)

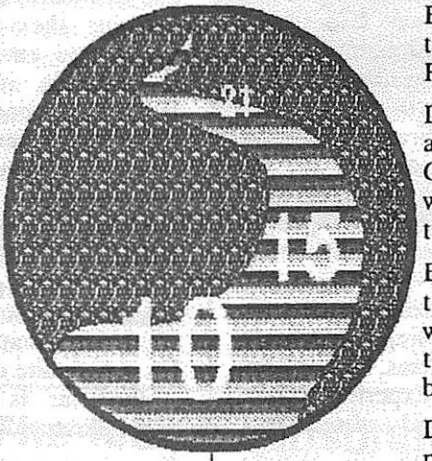
Welcome aboard, Skip, Carol, Ken, and Darlene! We look forward to the growth that will happen at the Institute as a result of your unique viewpoints and abilities.

Guidelines Program Revised

The Bulletin talks with David Mulvey, TMI Programs Director.

Bulletin: Can you tell us a little bit about the new, updated version of the Guidelines program, and what people should expect?

David Mulvey: The new Guidelines program has been expanded by one day. It will now run, like the Gateway Voyage and the H-Plus program, Saturday afternoon until Friday morning. The expansion includes additional program tapes and a one-on-one lab session for each participant. As always, the Guidelines program will consist primarily of Focus 15 tapes. After a review of [Focus] 10 and 12, the great majority of the week will be spent in Focus 15. There will also be several additional Focus 21 tapes not previously available in the Guidelines Program.



The overall purpose of the Guidelines program remains the same—primarily to help individuals get in touch with their inner guidance or total self, to learn their own ways of accessing inner information, and to use the insight they gain from that expanded perpsective to improve their daily lives. The secondary focus of the Guidelines program is to help individuals learn to verbally report while in these various Focus levels (primarily Focus 15 and Focus 21), without disturbing the depth of those levels.

Bulletin: What is that individual lab session going to be like?

David: The procedure for that is still being developed by Darlene Miller, Ph.D., who is designing the new Personal Resource Exploration Program (PREP) at TMI. Darlene is now in charge of individual lab sessions and the monitor team that conducts those sessions. Just as we always emphasize the individual nature of people's experiences, the lab session very likely will be highly individualized, depending on what direction the person in the booth wants to take it. The monitor will be able to adjust the mix of Hemi-Sync signals based on the individual's needs and preferences. The session will run approximately 45 minutes in the booth, once the participant is settled in and ready to go.

Bulletin: When does the new Guidelines Program start?

David: The first new and improved Guidelines Program will be February 25 through March 3.

Bulletin: Is there anything else going on with programs at TMI that members should be aware of?

David: We do have plans to update the Gateway Voyage program as well. We are in the process of modifying some of the existing program tapes, and we will be adding at least one new program tape. We will introduce, on an experimental basis, new Hemi-Sync signals that are being developed in the lab, as a part of the PREP and Brain-mapping Project. Based on responses from the groups, we will ultimately end up modifying and remastering all of the program tapes.

Bulletin: Given the fact that more and more people are finding out about TMI and the work that is going on there, what is being done to make the programs accessible to a wider audience?

David: We are increasing the number of programs held here at the Institute. We have also left some open dates. Depending on how registration goes, we might schedule additional programs in '89. One of my projects in '89 will be to get in touch with other conference centers around the country to see about bringing the Gateway Voyage and Human-Plus programs to those places as well. That's still in the developmental stage right now. That could possibly expand beyond the borders of the United States. [See "On the Road Again" article in this issue, for more information about the latest developments in TMI programs outside of Virginia.]

Bulletin: Anything else of interest to Bulletin readers?

David: We will be having an expanded number of Human-Plus Programs in '89. Because of the nature of the Guidelines program, where people have tape recorders in their CHEC units where they can learn to report from the various Focus levels, the Guidelines program for the time being will remain exclusive to the facility here in Virginia.

Gateway Outreach Training Seminar Expanded

TMI's Gateway Outreach (GO) Training Seminar has been expanded by one day, from 5 days to 6 days, starting with the February 11-17 program. This change reflects the addition of the H-Plus Weekend workshop to the training schedule.

Gateway Outreach is a growing network of trainers who are bringing the Hemi-Sync technology and programs to local communities throughout the United States and abroad. GO Trainers have appeared in television, radio, and newspapers, have lectured at hospitals, clinics, and schools, and have offered their dedication and expertise to the growing number of Hemi-Sync users around the globe. The GO Training seminar offers complete training in the application of two two-day workshops, the Excursion Workshop and the H-Plus Workshop. The seminar also covers the practical business side of sales and promotion, as well as presentation skills and organizational development. Being a GO Trainer gives you the opportunity to share your dedication to personal growth and expanded human potential, while it offers a monetary return in the form of participant's tuition and tapes sales. GO Training Seminars are sceduled for February and June of 1989. If you are interested in finding out more, contact Carol Johnston.

TMI Hires New Gateway Experience Coordinator

An Interview With the Irrepressible Ken Feather

Bulletin: Can you tell our readers a little bit about yourself and the qualities you bring to your new post as Gateway Experience Coordinator?

Ken Feather: I can type 30 words a minute... No, seriously. It all began when I had my first near-death experience at the tender age of nine years old, when I almost drowned in Lake Michigan while fishing. As I saw death approaching me, and as I was subsequently being pulled out of the water by the man who sells bait right there at the pier, I began to see visions and apparitions. Not knowing what they were, I immediately closed up. However in 1963, with no premeditation on my part, I wrote my high school freshman geography term paper on Atlantis, using the Edgar Cayce psychic readings for my primary research. Then in 1973, I began an apprenticeship to don Juan, the same fellow who diligently taught Carlos Castaneda—by the way, that story will appear in the January/February issue of Body, Mind, and Spirit. 1977 was the first time I ever consciously had an out-of-body experience. The interesting thing about that was I was standing up and wide awake looking at a fireplace mantle, going back and forth from flying over the trees—this was in the Superstition mountains—to the cabin I was in. Since then I have had numerous spontaneous out-of-body experiences, and I am now learning all kinds of induction procedures to do this consciously.

In 1983, I went through a Gateway Voyage, which really sent me in new directions. Immediately after the Gateway Voyage, I began working with the Gateway Experience home-study course, and I continue to derive value from that. In March of 1988, I went through the Guidelines program. I worked for the A.R.E., which is the membership organization centered around the Edgar Cayce legacy. My last position there was marketing manager, in which I was responsible for the marketing of books, tapes and home-study courses. I also managed the A.R.E.'s retail bookstore in Virginia Beach. Oh, yes, and I have degrees in Education and Journalism.

Bulletin: What are your responsibilities as the new Gateway Experience Coordinator?

Ken: For the first time, the various aspects of the Gateway Experience program will all be brought under a central desk. I'll be maintaining the files, giving feedack to people who call in, providing more personalized service to the participants and to people inquiring about the home program. I'll be assisting those people who request the names of other Gateway Experience participants in their state. I'll be handling all correspondence regarding feedback, comments, and problems, and tips for use of any Gateway Experience tape. Also, we are in the midst of redesigning the packaging of the course, giving it a more sophisticated look, but the content of the course will not change. And we're updating the written materials that accompany the individual waves.

Bulletin: How many people are enrolled in the Gateway Experience?

Ken: Right now we have about one thousand active participants.

Bulletin: Why should people participate in the Gateway Experience?

Ken Feather: There are numerous reasons. That's why this position is such an exciting challenge. First, they will learn to explore consciousness in general terms. The course helps them get going, whether it's in the physical, emotional, or spiritual avenues. If a person is interested in out-of-body experiences, it's a good way to get in touch with several exercises designed specifically for that, and several other exercises that are closely related, such as remote viewing, vectors, and free flow tapes. As you know, the Gateway Experience is not an "out-of-body course," but since many people get involved with it for that reason, I'd like to address it here. In addition to those exercises, the Gateway Experience promotes a general awareness which is typically, though not universally, necessary for developing the out-of-body state. The Gateway Experience predominantly teaches you the differences between physical and non-physical energy. The first 2/3 of the course, the first four albums, contains very specific instructions, exercises and techniques to learn the basics of non-physical energy exploration. The second half of the course focuses on taking the skills one has learned in the first half and applying them in non-verbal communication environments—there are no specific instructions, but the Hemi-Sync tones can guide the listener into different levels of exploration, where they can use the non-verbal communication tools they have learned. The participant can then refine, manipulate, project, and explore with non-physical energy, learning that distinctly different language of communication and exploration. It's a dynamite course.

Bulletin: Is there anything else you'd like to add?

Ken: I am truly looking forward to hearing from other participants, and from people who might have an interest in the Gateway Experience. I think it's going to be fun and exciting. I look forward to developing connections with people who make these pursuits a part of their lives.

H-PLUS TAPES NOW AVAILABLE

The Monroe Institute now has available many H-Plus tapes, including titles not previously released. All of the tapes are purchaseable individually, and eight titles are now available in pre-selected sets of four tapes. In the new catalog is a list and descriptions of the tapes and tape sets that are currently being offered. Prices for single H-Plus tapes are: Member $10.95, Non-Member $12.95. H-Plus tape sets prices are: Member $32.85, Non-Member $38.85. With the purchase of any three individual H-Plus tapes, you get a fourth tape free, along with an album package to hold the four tapes. Prices are: Member $32.85, Non-Member $38.85.

Quarterly Tape:

Increasing Nocturnal Excursion Diversion

This quarter brings you another H-Plus tape, "SWEET DREAMS." Because the sleep period captures a third of our lifetime on Earth, it offers an extensive and rich, but largely untapped environment for self-discovery and growth. The sleep state, especially during dreams, provides a potent bridge between our waking selves and our total selves. If we can gain some control over our dreams, we can greatly enhance our consciousness and move forward in our daily lives with greater clarity and self-knowledge. Plus, imagine the possibilities for FUN!

SWEET DREAMS makes use of the Hemi-Sync technology in providing a powerful Function Command that, when invoked by you during your conscious waking state (preferably right after you get into bed), can give you the ability to program your dreams in any shape or direction you desire. To use the function, all you need to do is inhale, think of the kind of dream you'd like to experience, then say or think the words "Plus - Theme - Dream" and exhale. The SWEET DREAMS function includes the suggestion that you will remember your dreams in great detail when you awake.

Side 1 of the SWEET DREAMS tape is called "PREP." This contains an exercise that helps you establish your own Access Channel—a powerful, clear line of communication that speaks to all parts of your being, possibly even down to the cellular level. If you have not already performed the PREP exercise on a previous H-Plus tape (the PREP exercise is the same on all H-Plus tapes), you should do so first, before listening to the side labelled "SWEET DREAMS."

To optimize your learning of the H-Plus function, we recommend that you listen to the tape while sitting or lying down in a comfortable position, in a place where you will be free of distractions and interruptions. Remember to use stereo headphones.

SWEET DREAMS, like the other H-Plus functions, gives you an opportunity to expand your consciousness into new areas, new ways of being and behaving. Because the way we've habitually lived our lives results in a kind of inertia, a resistance to change, it may take several tries to consciously recall your programmed dream experiences. The more you use the SWEET DREAMS function, however, the easier and more effective it will become. Before using it each night, it can be helpful to use some other H-Plus functions, such as Relax (inhale, say or think "Plus Relax, Relax," exhale), ATTENTION (inhale, say or think "Plus Focus," exhale), and IMPRINT (inhale, think of remembering your desired dreams, say or think "Plus Imprint, Imprint," exhale.) The more you utilize other H-Plus functions—especially in combinations—the more effective ALL of the other H-Plus functions you have learned will become. Other H-Plus functions that can be used along with SWEET DREAMS are SLEEP and WAKE/KNOW.

So, what shall it be— Tea with the Buddha? Flying through a heavenly paradise? Programming for a new job? Solving a nagging problem? Finding new loves, new relationships, new creative energy? With SWEET DREAMS, the content of your dreams is up to you! Happy rapid eye movements!

FEEDBACK

TMI receives many letters and calls from program partipants and professionals alike, who share with us the successes and joys of using Hemi-Sync.

Gateway Voyage Experience Continues to Blossom

Marlane Cherry took the Gateway Voyage with her husband in July of 1988. In the following letter, she shares her life changes following the program:

"I wanted to tell you briefly of some of the results in my/our lives since the Gateway Voyage in July.

1. Peace. The free-floating anxiety that I have used all my life to fuel projects and purpose is missing almost all of the time. The first few weeks I had a terrible time keeping appointments and doing left-brain things. I'm not as structured as I once was, but I spend a lot more time just being. This had been impossible for me before your seminar.

2. Balance. There is a growing sense of balance of left/right brain of worldly/spiritual in my life.

3. I am finding ways to explore and learn from my mother's dying of lung cancer that are real revelations to me.

4. My relationship with my husband (who attended with me) has been healed at levels that are beyond the day to day. I can't exactly explain the difference, but we are in harmony on a higher level than before. We can still choose to argue, but have recently had a vacation where we were together in a new way: contentedly, and choosing not to do or say things that might bother the other. We are going to collaborate on a book, and I am more optimistic that we just might pull it off.

I am reading Far Journeys now, and the value of reading both books after the seminar is enormous. I have been extraordinarily expanded. And never in the ways I would have thought. THANK YOU. THANK YOU. THANK YOU."

Hemi-Sync Gets Under Your Skin

Haines Ely is a Dermatologist and Dermopathologist in private practice in Grass Valley, California, and a member of The Monroe Institute's Professional Division. He writes:

"I use two Hemi-Sync synthesizers. One I play in the waiting room behind subliminal tapes which suggest "healing." The other I keep in the surgery room with earphones to put on patients during surgery. It's a bit difficult to do any type of controlled study, but the patients, especially in surgery, who use the earphones feel much calmer and take to it quite well. Some others refuse to put the earphones on at all."

If you have a Hemi-Sync experience you'd like to share, please write us!

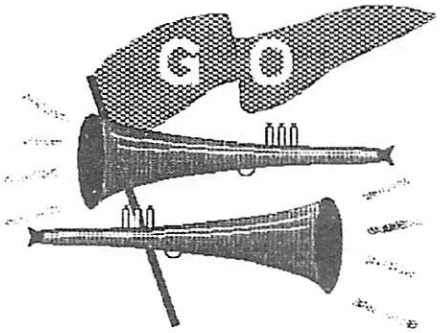
Researcher Seeking OBE Subjects

If you have a demonstrable ability to achieve conscious out-of-body or similarly defined non-physical states, you may want to participate in an experiment.

The Monroe Institute has been contacted by James J. Barrell, Ph.D., Executive Director of the Human Research Institute at West Georgia College. He is seeking subjects for a study which he intends will indisputably prove the existence of the out-of-body phenomenon, with the end goal being to teach pain sufferers an alternative method of decreasing physical pain. We have enthusiastically agreed to aid him in locating possible subjects.

Our understanding is that subjects will neither have to "perform" in a laboratory environment, nor be required to travel to Georgia in order to participate.

Should you wish to volunteer as a subject, please contact Dr. Barrell directly at the Psychology Department, (404) 836-6510 for further information.



GO KUDOS

TMI is pleased to announce its GO Trainer of the Quarter: Geoffrey Lyford of Calgary, Alberta. Geoffrey has trained 39 participants since he received his Gateway Outreach Trainer Certification in March of 1988. Geoffrey radiates a warmth, sincerity, and enthusiasm in his work, a quality well appreciated by his workshop participants and his fellow GO Trainers alike.

Formerly an urban planner with the federal Department of Environment in Canada, Geoffrey brings to his Gateway Outreach work a wealth of experience in teaching, writing, computers, business administration, and civil engineering. He enjoys teaching new skills, assisting others in the development of consciousness and organizing projects and seminars.

Geoffrey's own words demonstrate his dedication to the growth of others: "The Gateway Programs have tools and approaches for life that I believe can be used by a broad range of individuals. The Gateway tools and the emerging H-Plus tapes give me an opportunity to be more effective in sup-

REACHING OUT: Excursion Workshops and Human-Plus Workshops Scheduled

The GATEWAY OUTREACH (GO) program is a network of accredited GO Trainers throughout the United States and other parts of the world. GO Trainers offer two-day workshops called EXCURSIONS, and two-day workshops called H-PLUS. The EXCURSION allows participants to experience the levels of consciousness called FOCUS 10 and FOCUS 12. The focus of the EXCURSION is learning to perceive, understand, and communicate in non-physical energy environments, and there is an emphasis on integrating practical tools for use in daily life. The H-PLUS workshop is an intensive application of the Human-Plus system of self-evolution, in which practical, powerful tools are learned to gain greater control over the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual aspects of ourselves. The H-PLUS workshop assists the participant in shifting his or her belief system into a "know-system," and offers a gentle but effective way to learn new modes of thinking, feeling, and being that express more of our inherently unlimited potential.
